Hint That Ballots In Precinct One of Frankfort Township Were Tampered With

The election re-count being heard in the County Court before Judge Ralph C. Austin, wherein Alvah M. Weston et al, are trying to unseat Albert E. Markgraf, present Sheriff of Will County, came to a close shortly before noon today.

The official count of the ballots as canvassed by the canvassing board last November gave the following results:

Albert E. Markgraf ... 14338
Alvah M. Weston ... 13412
On the strength of these figures Albert E. Markgraf was officially declared duly elected Sheriff of Will County, by a majority of 926.

The re-count of the 70 precincts of Will County having been completed show the following results:
Alvah M. Weston ... 13173
Weston votes objected to. 326
Albert E. Markgraf ... 13156
Markgraf votes objected to. 1221

These figures show that Weston is leading Markgraf by 17 votes in the undisputed ballots today.

By adding the objected ballots to the undisputed ballots of Weston's count you arrive at 13499 or a gain of 87 votes over the official canvass of November which was 13412.

By adding the objected ballots to the undisputed ballots of Markgraf's count you arrive at 14377 or a gain of 39 ballots over the official canvass of November which was 14338.

The case has been continued until Tuesday, May 10, 1927, at 9:30 A. M. at which time the petitioners will present further evidence of fraud.

The petitioners have secured the services of Jay Fordyce Wood, a handwriting expert, to look over the ballots which have been objected to and Mr. Wood has been working in the County Court Room for the past several days. Ballots that show a tendency of having been tampered with are photographed with a machine that enlarges the markings or cross from eight to ten times. Mr. Wood has been looking over the ballots of the first, fourth, tenth, and seventeenth precincts of Joliet and the Frankfort precinct one.

Mr. Nadelhoffer, attorney for Alvah M. Weston, et al, objected to 33 ballots of the first precinct of Frankfort, because they appeared to have been tampered with. The cross in front of Albert E. Markgraf's name appeared to have been made with a different pencil than the cross in the Republican Circle. Mr. Nadelhoffer said. This was all the ballots objected to by either side in this precinct. These ballots were handed to Mr. Wood today to be looked over and photographed. The crosses in most instances showed a marked similarity.

Esther Mesenbrink A Spring Bride

The marriage of Miss Esther Mesenbrink to Mr. William Stockman took place May 1st, in Zion Lutheran Church, the Rev. Albert Buddenhagen performing the sacred rites. It was a pretty wedding and the bride was attractively gowned in a filmy, sparkling dress with a tulle veil of exceptional beauty. She carried a shower bouquet of roses. The bridal procession preceded by little Irma Hick and Donald Brennan as flower bearers, while Loretta Hick scattered rose petals from the lovely baskets of flowers for the bride to walk upon.

Mrs. Nieman Jr. as matron of honor was dressed in green georgette and Miss Stricker as bridesmaid wore a peach georgette gown, each carrying a gorgeous bouquet. The ushers Walter Mesenbrink with Helen Stricker who was lovely in orchid georgette. The bride advanced to the altar on the arm of her father. The Rev. Buddenhagen delivered a most impressive sermon after which the party drove to the photographers. A reception was held in the community hall also a wonderful dinner followed by dancing. The dining room was artistically decorated for the occasion as was the assembly hall.

There were many smart dressed women in this wedding party, in fact the affair was a pleasing sight. The couple received many handsome as well as useful gifts. A little later in the season they will spend their honeymoon motoring thru Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

STARTS NEW DAIRY

Mr. Greenwood has started a new dairy on the Powers farm west of Mokena. He distributed 200 sample bottles of milk Tuesday.

Court Knocks Out Tinley Concrete Paving Project

Tinley Park will not have a paved street on Kirhen street since Judge Briggs of the Cook County court decided against the proponents of the measure.

Last fall a move was started by residents along this street to have it concreted under the special assessment plan. A local board of improvements was organized and after much work of surveying, getting engineers estimates, etc., the assessment roll was prepared and a hearing held last December in County Court. After the project was under way a number of residents on this street filed objections to having the paving project go thru and engaged Attorney A. H. Krusemark of Frankfort to represent them.

On April 29, Judge Briggs of County Court of Chicago, who had the case under advisement for three weeks gave a decision knocking out and dismissing the proceedings for pavement with concrete on Kirhen Street.

Attorney Krusemark represented half a dozen property owners, owning property abutting on the street and were successful in their efforts. The Village was represented by Law Firm of Bryant, Menelly, Gorman and Lewie. The case was hotly contested.

The Court gave and based its decision on the fact that the clerk failed to have his Journal disclose a "yea and nay" vote on Ordinance for the improvement, also he posted copies of Ordinance, record which was improper.

The proponents of the paving measure still show a disposition to get this street paved it is said.

Tinley Park News

Mrs. George Schriber passed a few days with her son and wife in Chicago.

There was a chavari for Miss V. Stelter last week held in Saenger Hall and there will be another for Esther Mesenbrink Thursday evening which promises to equal the one last week.

"His Honor the Mayor," Wm. Funk, works swift, for since our last issue, the streets of the town have been scraped and the square beautified. The name of the village stands out in bold relief as a means of identifying the town to travelers driving through. There will be flowers too. From the time Mr. Funk made the request for the scraper it took only three days to get it here the best of it is that everything he has been able to accomplish so far, is without any expense what-so-ever to the town or town people. He says there is to be a band stand erected on south side of R. I. tracks, the materials of which have generously been donated by Mr. Vick, of Beauty Lumber Co. Money also has voluntarily been donated for the cause of Sat. night concerts.

The business men and citizens are backing Mr. Funk in his endeavor to do the things the town folks are asking of him and in the realization of some of his own ideas as well.

The Petticoat Ministrel show was so well given and accepted by the public, that the P. T. A. is considering giving it in Frankfort. They need a library here and the women know that it up to them to get the money, so really this is a "short cut" route to get there goal.

2 Mokena Hard Road Association Officials Resign

Ona E. McGovney, chairman of the Mokena Development and Hard Road Improvement Association, tendered his resignation as chairman of the Association at the regular weekly meeting at the Mokena school last Monday night.

In handing in his resignation Mr. McGovney said he was tired of having certain organization members try to make a monkey of him and who, he said, had said he was keeping things under his hat and that certain members of the organization were doing the same thing he had been accused but of which he said he was not guilty. Hot words passed between him and L. G. Bruder, chairman of the publicity committee.

Immediately after Mr. McGovney handed in his resignation, Herman Schweser handed in his resignation as secretary of the Association and both left the building. The meeting continued and the regular weekly session will be held next Monday night at the school house.

There has been more or less friction between some of the members of the organization and the chairman for sometime and the matter came to a final show down Monday night.

New Ice Cream Parlor and Lunch Room for Mokena

Peter Michelsen is preparing to open a new business enterprise at Mokena by way of an ice cream parlor, lunch room and an oil filling station on the former Schenck property south of Mokena at the four corners. The lunchroom and ice cream parlor will be modern in every way. The oil station has a capacity of 1,000 gallons of gasoline. A pretty drive way will be built around the entire place and a pretty flower garden will add color to the place.

A fine illumination system is being installed. Four large electric lights on ornamental posts will light up the oil station driveway, while a number of other powerful lights will light up the driveway and walks around the lunch room and ice cream parlor.

Mr. Michelsen expects to open up for business by Saturday night, May 14th, at the same time that the Mokena Men's Club dancing season opens.

Mr. Michelsen is preparing to serve chicken dinners to tourists as well as automobile parties and has engaged a chef from Chicago to prepare these dinners and other meals.

Mr. Michelsen is to be complimented on putting up such an attractive place and it is hoped that he will carry out other improvements that will help Mokena to grow. The new places face on Wolf Road and the east and west gravel roads.

To Form Mokena Pure Milk Local

A number of dairymen in this section are vitally interested in the Pure Milk Association and a meeting will be held on Saturday night of this week at the St. Mary Hall, Mokena for the purpose of organizing a Mokena Local. To Repeat "The Rock" May 12

The religious drama "The Rock" which was presented under the auspices of the Mokena M.E. church at the St. John church parlors recently, is to be again presented by special request at St. John's parlors on the night of May 12th. The people of Marley and Frankfort had requested that the play be presented in their towns but as the stage lighting facilities were not as required for the play it was decided to again present it at Mokena. A cordial invitation is extended to the Marley and Frankfort folks to come to Mokena and see this worth while play.

Mokena Road Asso. Wants A Full House Next Monday Night

The Mokena Development and Hard Road Improvement Association will meet at the school house next Monday night at the usual hour. A new chairman and secretary will be elected to succeed the officers who resigned last Monday night. Don C. Hall who has been in Springfield the past week in the interest of legislation for Wolf Road will report the proceedings attended on this measure. All Wolf Road boosters are invited and especially the ladies, to attend the meeting next Monday night. A full house is desired. The Wolf Road advocates are doubling their efforts to get Wolf Road thru as a paved highway and will continue to work and meet until Wolf Road is paved, whether thru special legislation or the county bond issue.

The map committee of the Will County Board of Supervisors met Monday at the court house at Joliet to begin the preliminary work of drafting maps on which will be shown all the highways in the county to be paved. It is estimated, however, that by the time the maps are completed, estimates of building costs secured and the same passed on to the State Highway Department for their approval and by them passed back to the county it will be until next spring before the bond issue can be presented to the electorate of Will County for their approval.

After holding a secret session the Board of Supervisors of Will County decided to have the bond issue come up for a hearing last Friday afternoon. The resolutions of the Hard Road committee of the Joliet Mokena Development and Hard Road Improvement Association were read and filed and Chairman of the County Board Wm. Lankau appointed a committee naming Fred Francis of New Lenox as chairman, to prepare maps and other data in connection with the bond issue.

It is said that an appropriation of $2,500,000 will build the main highways of Will County and afford the needed hookups with Cook County.

New Lenox Scouts To Build Cabin

The Boy Scouts of New Lenox are very much enthused over the idea of building a Scout cabin. The Western Union Pole yards south of New Lenox have offered to donate 150 telegraph poles for the cabin and a mason and carpenter have offered to donate their services to build the cabin, but the big question is where to locate the cabin, no site having been secured. George J. Hacker has offered to lease or sell a lot in the Brookwood subdivision north of New Lenox, but the Scouts do not feel able to buy a lot and cannot lease one at all. A site on the Barr property west of New Lenox is being considered. The New Lenox Scouts are very active and every boost given them is a boost for the community.

Worth Twp. Has 17 Cemeteries

A colored cemetery is established at the old William Henry farm, 53 acres, located on the southwest corner of 115th street and 52nd Ave. Township of Worth. Three bodies buried at night are interred now and workmen are engaged in draining grading the plot. An ornamental iron fence, facing north has been erected on 115th street and the place will be named "Rest Vale".

This is the very site where on Friday, March 11th, workmen were engaged in digging a grave. To hoodwink officials of the Village of Worth and Worth Township they gave out the story that they were going to put an airplane guidance light and it was accepted without further questioning.

J. M. Gibbons and Bros. of 11415 Michigan Avenue, Roseland, were brokers. Title was put in trust at the Pullman Trust and Savings Bank and Monday it was transferred to Arthur E. Gambill of Chicago, for the sum of $56,600 subject to a mortgage of $44,600. The Pullman bank substantiated these facts Wednesday.

The spot adjoins the Hazel Green school, a modern structure, on the west. Across the corner of 52nd avenue is the old Hazel Green cemetery. The Village of Alsip at its first trustee meeting last Tuesday night passed an anti-cemetery ordinance, prohibiting such an establishment within one mile of the corporate limits. The "Rest Vale" tract is within this boundary but the bodies are in.

Thus because of the hoodwinking of Worth officials, village and township, 53 acres of tax paying property has been withdrawn. With the Bur Oak cemetery 93 acres have been taken away this year. There are now 17 cemeteries in Worth township, none of which pay a dime in taxes for anything.

RENEWES HER YOUTH

Mrs. N. C. Freeman, seventy-seven years old, a widow of a Methodist Minister, is taking a special course in American and English literature at Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois.

Mrs. Freeman started quietly to study at Northwestern last summer, and on consulting her teachers as to continuance, they advised her favorably. And so she goes to class and is led into the delights of higher literature along with girls of eighteen and twenty.

Mrs. Freeman is old enough to recall the days when her own daughter took a preparatory course at Northwestern and also entered the University as a freshman. This was in 1901 and 1902.

"I advise old folks everywhere to forsake the drowsy corners, their knitting and their warm slippers, and get into active life again on a college campus," she said. "My problem became, after my husband died ten years ago, just what I should do—feed myself and sleep and grow old and feeble, or mix in to every day life again. I chose to renew my youth and therefore sought out Northwestern. I know my mind is sharper and my mentality improved since I re-entered college life," she concluded. "One grows old, feeble, and out of step with the times when one retires absolutely from the world. My final word is this: 'Don't retire, don't grow rusty, don't give up, but maintain your interest in every good thing; and, above all, improve your mind and add to your knowledge. It is never too late to obtain an education.'"

The DOOM TRAIL

by ARTHUR D. HOWDEN SMITH
AUTHOR OF PORTO BELLO GOLD ETC.

WNU SERVICE

COPYRIGHT BY BRENTANO'S

—22—

We spent two days with these people, recuperating in preparation for the stern task ahead of us. After parting with them we continued in leisurely fashion eastward, keeping well to the north of the Great Trail of the Long House and avoiding as much as possible contact with the Onondagas, Oneidas and Mohawks whose countries we traversed. Some ten days after leaving Oswego we found ourselves on the verge of that untracked domain which was roamed by the Keepers of the Doom Trail.

In order to assure that our departure would be free from the observation of spies we left our last camp
after dark and in two parties, Ta-wan-
ne-ars and myself going in one direction and Peter in another.

Our meeting place was a grove on the bank of a creek, one of the tributaries of the Mohawk. We reached it without observation, and lay in concealment most of the day, starting
again in the late afternoon and moving warily through the forest, following
no particular course, but addressing ourselves rather to the effacement of all evidence of our passage.

We discovered nothing, and the next day and many others went by with no better luck. Our provisions were exhausted, and we were compelled to live from hand to mouth upon such game as Ta-wan-ne-ars could snare or kill with his tomahawk—and certes he was wondrous proficient in both arts.
But we kept on, bearing always eastward and quartering the country in every direction.

In the very midst of this deserted wilderness we came upon what we sought. We had abandoned the headwaters of the Mohawk and were following one of its middle branches, a shallow stream with pebbly, shelving
banks, wading close inshore so as not to disturb the close-growing shrubbery.
We all saw it simultaneously—a tattered, weather-stained fragment of canvas, caught on a snag in the current. I fished it out with my musket barrel.

"A pack-cofer," declared Peter immediately.

"And safely identified," I added, putting my finger on an unmistakable
thistle in green paint with three-quarters of a letter "M" above it.

A mile farther on Ta-wan-ne-ars exclaimed and pointed upward to the trunk of a tall elm. Partly shaded by the foliage of the lower boughs a deep blaze was revealed in the bark.

We waded ashore and investigated.
The underbrush was as thick as elsewhere, but presently Peter gave a heave with his bull-like shoulders and a whole section of growths, which had been laced together with vines on a
backing of boughs, lifted gate-fashion.
Beyond stretched a narrow alley,
whose carpet of grass showed it to be seldom traveled.

"If this be not the Doom Trail 'tis worth a look none the less," I whispered.

Peter nodded, and slipped through the opening. I followed him, and Tawan-ne-ars brought up the rear.

Here in this hidden path the forest noises became remote. Even the birds ceased to twitter overhead, and the slightest stirring of the treetops made us drop to earth in expectancy of attack. Yet when the attack came we were taken completely by surprise.
We were all of us alert, but the first warning that we were under observation was a green-feathered arrow
which sang between Peter and me and buried its head in the ground.

"Don't fire, whatever you do," muttered Peter as he threw himself behind the nearest trunk.

Ta-wan-ne-ars and I copied his example. I found myself on the right of the three. The others had selected standing trunks. I had chosen, perforce, a fallen giant whose forest wind had overthrown. I crawled along the trunk into the tangle of roots, and from there gained a clump of bushes
growing about the hole from which it had been torn.

The green-feathered arrow had ceased quivering and I idly followed the angle of its inclination. My eyes traveled forward—and focused upon a hideous painted face which peered
from a screen of sumac.

The watcher motioned behind him,
and a second painted visage glided to his side. Ta-wan-ne-ars, seeking to draw their fire, thrust out the end of his scalp-lock, and the first watcher instantly drew bow and sent an arrow
that grazed the trunk.

Nothing happened for a while. The Keepers waited, and Ta-wan-ne-ars and Peter remained under cover. I surveyed the situation. From the hole in which I lay a depression of the ground ran eastward past the lair
of the Cahnugas in the sumac clump.
I started to crawl up it, dragging my musket after me, but before I had gone a dozen feet I was obliged to abandon the gun in order to insure that my progress should be silent.

When I was parallel with the sumac
clump I sought shelter under a patch of wild blackberry bushes. Cautiously parting my screen—which was exceedingly thorny and painful—I was able to view the Keepers from the rear. They were ensconced in what was evidently a permanent sentry
post. Beyond the sumacs was a low bark hut masked with boughs. At their feet were muskets. The bows
they held were employed for the purpose of adding mystery to their attack.

I worked myself a little more in the rear of their position, then rose quietly and drew knife and tomahawk. I was an amateur at casting the ax, but this was no time for hesitation. I flung it with all my might, and yelled
the nearest approach I could compass
to the war-whoop.

The tomahawk struck one of the Keepers with the flat of its blade, felling him. The other savage turned quickly and loosed his arrow at me, aiming wide in his confusion. He stooped for his musket, but I was on him with my knife and he was forced to leap back and meet me on even terms. Ta-wan-ne-ars and Peter came running between the trees, whooping encouragement.

They arrived in the nick of time, for the Cahnuga I had tried to toma-hawk was on his feet, ready to shoot
me as I dodged the knifeblade of his mate. The Seneca brained this man with the butt of his gun, and Peter methodically tripped my adversary

and helped me pinion him.

Ta-wan-ne-ars paused long enough
to remove what was left of the scalp
of his victim, then crossed to us and set his bloody knife to the throat of the survivor.

"Is it to be torture or a quick death,
Cahnuga dog?" he demanded.

The red eyes of the Keeper glared
at him. "Death," the man spat, and strove to gnaw at the hands which held him.

"Then speak truly. Who travels Doom Trail today?"

"Nobody. We watch always."

Ta-wan-ne-ars pricked him slightly.

"You watch always," assented the Seneca. "Yes. And who comes?"

A shout echoed through the forest aisles. The red eyes of the Cahnuga flared exultantly. His mouth opened.
"Yaaa-aaaa-aaa-ah—"

Ta-wan-ne-ars drove his point home,
and the scream ended in an awful
bubbling gasp.

The shout was repeated.
The crashing of branches sounded
as some heavy body ran along the Doom Trail.

"Did you hear that screech?"
shouted a rough voice.

"Yaas, Red, we hear him. He bery much like feller feel somet'ing he not like."

"Fat, Fair and Forty" Not Much in Demand

An American woman, visiting Turkey with her three daughters, engaged an old Turk in conversation.
It developed that the Turk was a broker in wives, and the woman, wishing to have some fun with him, asked,
"At what value would you place my eldest daughter, supposing that she were for sale?" The Turk mentioned a sum that was flatteringly high. "And my second daughter?" the mother next inquired. A still higher price was fixed, age of course, being the standard. The highest price of all was set for the youngest daughter, a little flapper. "And now," said the mother, "what price for me?" The Turk was no diplomat. He promptly

Peter nudged me, and Ta-wan-ne-ars seized the bow and quiver of one of the dead Keepers. We crouched beside the bodies behind the sumac
screen. My gun was still where I had left it in the gully by which I had approached the lair of the watchers. In its stead I selected the musket of the man the Seneca had just knifed.

A third voice was raised—in the Cahnuga dialect, which was a corruption of the Iroquois speech and perfectly understandable to my comrades.

"Qua, O Keepers who watch," shouted the third speaker. "We acquaint you that we approach. We have with us the Red One and the Black One."

We remained quiet, but Peter possessed himself of the gun of the second Cahnuga and placed it where he could reach it as soon as his own piece was discharged.

They were approaching over the trail which forked into the one we had followed from the stream with the pebbly banks. And at this point apparently they came to the junction
of the two branches.

The Indian who had shouted before repeated his hail.

"Them Keepers done gone away,
Red," declared Tom. "Mebbe some Maquas (hostile term for Mohawks)
come dis way. The Keepers chase 'em
out o' yuh."

"—I'm agoin' to find out," returned Bolling.

He trotted out of the mouth of the trail into the open space on the brink
of the muskrat swamp.

"Nobody here," he called back after a casual look around. "Guess the Keepers got after somebody—or else
the lazy dogs have turned in for a sleep. I'll find out later for sure.
Now you rustle them packs up, and I'll get the dugout ready."

He dragged a canoe hollowed from a tree trunk from its hiding place in a bed of reeds, and produced two paddles from the prostrate trunk of a hollow tree. But we paid scant attention to him. Our eyes were fastened upon the odd procession which emerged from the trail in obedience to his summons.

First walked the negro Tom, a huge
pack bowing his enormous shoulders.
After the negro, in single file, came eight Cahnugas, each with a large pack braced on a ga-ne-ko-na-ah, or burden frame. They carried their muskets in their hands.

"We've got to hurry if we're goin'
to get everything ferried over the swamp tonight," grumbled Bolling.

"Waal, what's bithn' you?"

This question was addressed to a Cahnuga who, in unslung his burden frame, had chanced to see the arrow in the ground which the Keepers
had shot in their first attempt to bait us.

The Cahnuga pointed silently to
the green-feathered shaft.

"By —!" swore Bolling with a start.
"D'ye see that, Tom? Something's happened here."

Bolling glanced about him uneasily.

"The Keepers have gone, that's sure," he announced. "What most likely happened was some party broke
in here, and the Keepers chased 'em."
He chuckled wickedly.

"Ain't no blood nor nothin' around,
so it 'pears likely the Keepers got the jump on 'em."

Ta-wan-ne-ars, who had been occupied in extracting arrows from a quiver and setting them in a row before him with points lightly thrust
into the ground, now noticed a shaft.

"Shall we begin, brothers?" he whispered. "Hold your fire until I run out of arrows."

"Ja," agreed Peter. "Budt do not shoot Red Jack or der nigger. We will safe them if we can."

"You can take on the negro," I spoke up. "Leave Bolling to me."

Peter looked doubtful.

"He is a good knife-fighter," he commenced to argue; but Ta-wan-nears chose that moment to open his bombardment, and the Dutchman's remonstrance went for naught.

A green arrow streaked across the grove and buried its barbed bone head
in the chest of one of the Cahnugas.
The man shrieked and tore at the shaft with his hands. His companions scattered right and left. But Ta-wanne-ars gave them no respite. His shafts filled the air. The green arrows drove into the packs, quivered in tree trunks, pierced another unfortunate.

The Cahnugas let off a ragged volley which whistled over our heads.
Ta-wan-ne-ars discharged the last of his arrows and reached for his musket.

We saw two of the Indians collapse.
Peter caught up his second musket
and he and Ta-wan-ne-ars shot again.

'Twas impossible to miss. Besides Bolling and Tom, only two of the enemy were left.

"Knife and hatchet for the rest,"
said Ta-wan-ne-ars grimly. "Are my brothers ready?"

Lesson for May 8

PETER AND THE RISEN LORD

LESSON TEXT—John 20:1-10; 21:15-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed be the God
and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,
which according to His abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively
hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Forgives
Peter.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Forgives and Restores Peter.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—The Risen Lord Appears to Peter.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—Fellowship With the Risen Lord.

I. Peter and John at the Empty
Tomb (John 20:1-10).

John does not enter into a description of the resurrection of Christ or attempt a proof other than that the tomb was empty and that Jesus had repeatedly manifested Himself to the disciples after the tomb had been found empty.

1. How they came to know (vv.
1, 2).

The information was brought by Mary Magdalene out of whom Jesus
had cast seven demons (Mark 16:3, Luke 8:2). Prompted by love for Him
she went early to the tomb, "while it was yet dark," "she was last at the cross and first at the grave, she stayed longest there and was soonest here."

Her love for Jesus was genuine,
though her knowledge of His resurrection was defective. She could not rest till she had done her utmost for Him because she realized that great good had come to her from His hands.

The reason we work so little for the Lord is that we have such a dim sense
of His saving grace.

2. Their investigation (vv. 3-10).

The news of the empty tomb, which Mary brought with breathless haste,
so moved John and Peter that they both ran to investigate. Upon arrival at the tomb John gazed upon it, but Peter entered it. John, with holy reverence, hesitates. Peter, with impuliveness, enters the tomb at once.

Their respective actions are not to be explained on the basis of degrees of love for the Lord, but to temperament.
The investigation convinced them. The removal of the stone from the sepulcher, the arrangement of the grave-clothes all convinced them that it had not been done by an enemy.

II. The Charge of the Risen Lord to Peter (John 21:15-17).

Jesus put to Peter the thrice repeated question, "Lovest thou me?" Then He gave him a commission. This shows that supreme love to Christ is the one essential qualification for serving Him.
Love is the spring from which all Christian activity flows. He asked,
also, to show that there are three classes in the church which demand care and attention. These three classes need special care and food.

1. Feed my lambs (v. 15).

This first charge relates to those who are beginning the Christian life
—the babes in Christ. The word
"feed" means more than instruction. It means in addition to instruction that proper surroundings,
influences and examples should be provided. As a Christian minister, Peter was to be an example, provide the proper surroundings and do the proper teaching for the young Christians, those just beginning the Christian life.

2. Tend my sheep (v. 16).

This charge shows a different class.
It means to shepherd the sheep. It has application to the mature class of Christians. The duty enjoined therefore is to care for those who have passed out of their childhood into maturity. He must feed the sheep,
give them proper instruction, guide
them, lead them and discipline them.
For this ministry the essential qualification is love.

3. Feed my sheep (v. 17).

The implication here is that Peter
was charged with the responsibility of caring for aged Christians. The word "feed" is much the same as in the first case. It means that for the aged Christians the instruction ought to be such as will be suited to their needs. This needs special emphasis today because much attention is given to the young people, but in many instances the old people are neglected.

III. Follow Me (vv. 18-23).

In verse 18 is given a clear prophecy concerning Peter's death. It was to be by crucifixion. Peter once shrunk from the cross, but now the Lord holds it up before him. It is not the Lord's death on the cross, but Peter's own. He teaches here that the Christian's death is for the glory of God. Whatever may be before us,
even the cruel cross, the Lord's command is to follow Him.

Our Hope

Our hope lies not in the absence of danger, but in the presence of Christ,
who is able to control the storm. No church with Christ in it can be wrecked or lost. More of the living Christ, more of His love, of His teaching.—Western Recorder.

Costs Self-Denial

To keep in good grace with one's own self often costs self-denial, but it pays a mighty dividend.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

Object in Holding Particle of Land

What would you do if some friend
died and bequeathed you a trillionth
of an acre of land? You couldn't build a summer home, but you might start a microbe farm. Although land is not portioned out in such minute
parcels today, transactions involving pieces of property ranging in size
from a trillionth of an acre to a square inch were common in Contra Costa county, Calif., 38 years ago.
The trillionth of an acre, probably
the smallest piece of described land
on record, was purchased at a tax sale. The land was a portion of the Tar ranch at San Pablo. The purchaser paid $24.89, which represented tax delinquency and costs of sale. The small piece of land would be merely large enough to place the point of a fine needle on. In accepting minute pieces in the center of large ranches,
the bidders secured a lien which
clouded the title, and were often paid
well before a private sale could be transacted.—Oakland Tribune.

Tanlac Saves Ocean Trip

Ill Health Brought on by Indigestion, Run-Down Condition, Relieved by Tanlac.

"I was so run-
down that I decided to take an ocean trip
but I found Tanlac
saved this heavy expense," says Ralph
Redden, 201 12th
St., East Moline, Ill.
"I suffered from
indigestion and gas
that bloated my stomach. My feet
dragged and I was always tired, restless,
nervous."

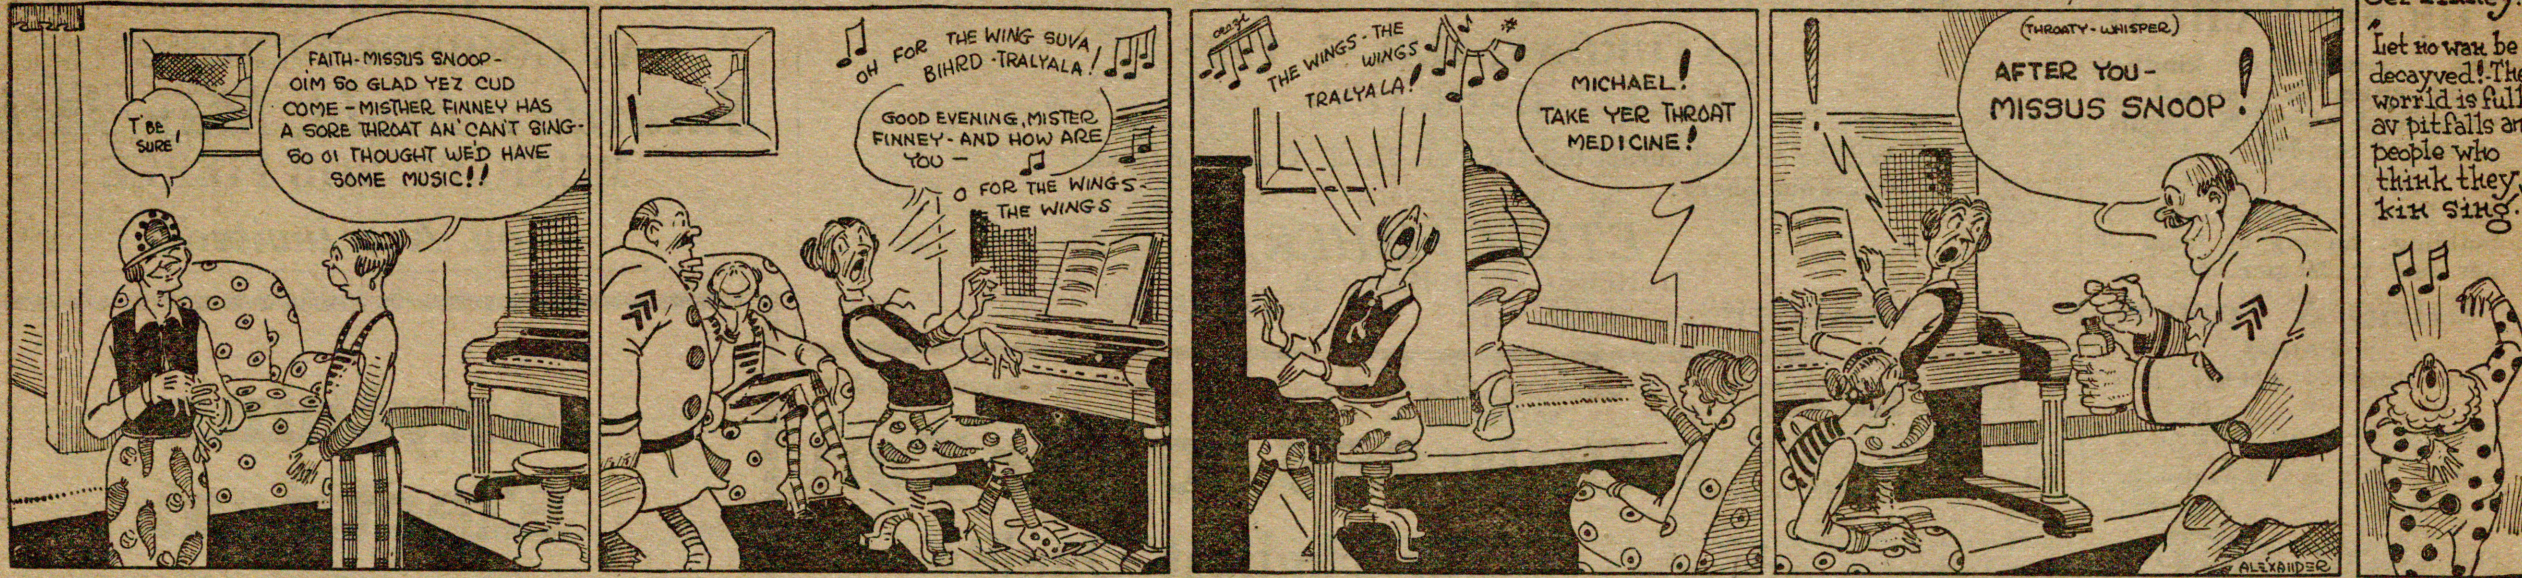

"Nothing seemed to do me any good.
After reading about Tanlac I decided to try it. Immediately I began to feel stronger. My appetite returned. This wonderful tonic built up my strength
and health, gave me energy, made me feel like a boy."

ORLAND

ORLAND M. E. NOTES.
Elmer L. Satterlund, pastor.
A new schedule of Friday evening pictures are being prepared and will be published in the near future. In the meantime our patrons depend upon having a picture each Friday.

Sunday, May 8th. This is Mothers day. Bible school at 9:30 standard time. Morning worship at 10:30 standard time. Mothers Day will be observed by a special address by the pastor and special music by the choir and probably a "surprise". All mothers and grandmothers are specially urged to be present. Let us honor motherhood.

Evening service at 7 p. m. standard time. The Reverend Paul Sanders of the Worth Community church will have entire charge of the evening service. He will conduct, as an introductory element of the service, a vespers service. The public should take advantage of this since Mr. Sanders is one of the most skilful ministers in the Chicago area in handling such a service.

The pastor of the Orland Park M. E. Church will conduct the service at the Worth church next Sunday evening.

On Sunday evening May 29th there will be an intercommunity patriotic, Memorial Day service at the Orland Park M. E. Church. The folks from Worth and the pastor will be with us. We should all plan for a big service that evening.

Our Sunday school attendance is increasing again, after the winter months, and presumably less illness among our folks. Aside from Easter Sunday last Sunday registered the largest attendance at Sunday school for the past few months. Let us keep it up and excell our last record.

Last Sunday afternoon the pastor and his wife accompanied by Mrs. Jacob Kramer, Miss Clara Myerick and Mr. Wm. Beagley visited "shut-ins" and in several cases the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by the pastor to those unable to be out for our services. Mr. Wm. Beagley kindly gave the use of his automobile for this service.

Practice by the high school pupils continues on the play "Professor Pep" which will soon be given at the High School.

The pupils of Mrs. H. Adele Cooper will give a recital Wednesday evening, May 18th, 7:15 standard time at the Orland Park M. E. Church. Selections will be given by Royal Glahn violin and Francis Glahn, cornet.

Mrs. Frank Sayers is reported ill at this writing and will be compelled to remain in bed for a few days. For the past few days Mrs. Jas. Creer has been ill.

The committee on moving pictures met at the parsonage last Monday evening to plan the schedule for the next few months.

The Altar and Rosary society of St. Michael's church will give a bunco and card party in St. Michael's hall, Wednesday, May 11th, at 8 o'clock.

Bird Migration

The reason why birds migrate is a mystery to biologists. They have been studying for hundreds of years to find out and are as much in the dark to day as they were 200 years ago, according to Dr. Alexander Wetmore, president of the American Ornithological union.

Record Hailstones

Hailstones are sometimes bigger than oranges. A case has been described in which hailstones buried themselves to a depth of more than a half a yard in the soil of a meadow.

Earliest Street Cars

Street cars were introduced in the United States in New York city in 1833, according to Liberty.

Night to Be Remembered

The "Big Wind" occurred in Ireland on the night of January 6, 1839. In Limerick, Galway and Athlone hundreds of houses were blown down and hundreds more were burned by the spreading of fires from those blown down. It was called "The Big Wind," because it is the worst of its kind known to the people of Ireland.

Seven Seas Defined

The north and south Atlantic, the north and south Pacific, the Arctic and Antarctic and the Indian oceans are called the Seven seas.

Fairly Warned

A small coster child entered the operating room at a hospital, looked up at the surgeon, and said, "If you 'urts me I'll tell my dad-and 'e's a policeman."—London Tit-Bits.

Andrew Jackson's Politics

Andrew Jackson is popularly supposed to have started the modern Democratic party. It was to a large extent the successor of the Jeffersonians. But Old Hickory himself did not apply the name "Democratic" to his followers. During his Presidency and after his retirement to the Hermitage, in all his correspondence he called himself a Republican and spoke of his party as the Republican party.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Slaves Were Shaved

A clean-shaven face in the East was originally a sign of servitude. Old pictures show kings and conquerors heavily bearded and with long hair, while their slaves and captives are clean-shaven and close-cropped. The Greeks and the Romans later discarded "face fungus," as it gave their enemies a hand-hold in the close fighting, which was, of course, the rule in those days.

Standardization in Service

THE manufacturing of equipment for the Bell System was one of the earliest, and is now among the outstanding examples of the standardization and quantity production which are distinctive characteristics of American industry.

Quantity production for the nation-wide Bell System makes it possible to put into every item of telephone equipment better material and better workmanship, at a lower cost to the telephone user, than could otherwise be done. But the dominant advantage of uniform manufacturing, under standard specifications, lies in the improvement of the service.

Every transmitter in the System is designed to work in harmony with every receiver all over the land and to co-ordinate with all the complicated equipment and lines behind. All can function at full efficiency for they are designed and manufactured for that purpose. Standardization, not only of equipment but of operating methods, is the only basis upon which it would be possible adequately to meet America's need of a nation-wide, universal telephone service.

HAY CROP SHORT AGAIN IN 1926

ANOTHER short hay crop in 1926 followed the one of 1925, but prices did not advance as much as expected, according to a survey just completed by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. The 1926 tame hay crop was only 86,377,000 tons as compared with 85,717,000 tons produced last year. The quality of the hay crop in 1926 was only 86.7 per cent on account of wet weather at harvest time. Last year, the quality averaged 87.2 per cent. The ten year average is 91.6. During the past five years the tame hay crop averaged 90,559,000 tons. A total of 58,840,000 acres of tame hay were harvested in 1926 as compared with 58,231,000 acres harvested last year. This is an increase of 1.4 per cent from last year and 1.7 per cent below the five-year average.

In 1926 hay prices fluctuated over a relatively wide range, making a top on No. 1 alfalfa at Kansas City of $26 last April and declining to $21 in June, July and August. Receipts of all hay at thirteen leading markets reached 3,200 cars one week in January, but declined to 900 in August.

Present prices of feeds and live stock are such that heavy feeding is under way, which should soon be reflected in a better demand for hay and other feed crops, says the Foundation. The city market for timothy hay is declining on account of the replacement of horses by automobiles and trucks, but the dairy industry, which is expanding, is requiring more alfalfa and clover. With a short available supply and a good feeding demand, higher prices are expected in the early part of 1927, according to the Foundation's observers.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Hiram L. Williamson,
Secretary
Illinois Press Association

Through house bill 275, introduced in the state legislature by Representative T. L. Fekete, Jr., the state of Illinois has been asked to appropriate $300,000 for the Northwest Territory exposition at old Cahokia, near East St. Louis, Ill.

Purpose of the Northwest Territory exposition as set forth by the bill is to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the acquisition of the Northwest territory by Gen. George Rogers Clark and 150 years of contribution to American progress by this region, the first territory acquired by the American Union.

With the destruction of Kaskaskia by the Mississippi river no place in the Northwest territory has a better claim to be the scene of a celebration of the great achievement of General Clark, according to a resolution adopted by the Illinois State Historical society. Most of the major events of the American Revolution west of the Alleghenies took place within a short distance from Cahokia or at Cahokia itself.

An exposition of international significance, one that will attract hundreds of thousands of visitors from all sections of the nation, is planned by the Northwest territory commission, which has charge of its preparation. Paul B. Corr, executive secretary of the commission, has expressed the belief that an investment of $300,000 in the Northwest Territory exposition, to be held in Illinois, will bring far greater returns to the state than the $150,000 given the Philadelphia sesquicentennial at the last session.

Senators Andrew S. Cuthbertson, chairman, Jesse L. Deck, William S. Jewell, James H. Forrester, and H. S. Burgess, members of a special committee appointed to investigate crime legislation with various organizations of the state, submitted the following recommendations to the senate in conjunction with their report: "That in all trials of persons charged with crime the jury shall be the judges of the fact only. That the bail law in the state of Illinois should be amended so that it would function in the manner intended and not be an alibi for bandits, robbers and other criminals to ply their trade pending trial. The parole law of Illinois should be amended in such a way that first offenders would be given every chance possible for reformation and that the habitual criminal or those who had been convicted of criminal offenses more than three times would be deprived of the provisions of said act. Prohibit the manufacture, sale or possession of machine guns and gas bombs. Repeal the statute which prevents comment upon defendants' refusal to testify in criminal trials. Establish a bureau of criminal identification. Amend the arson law. In all cases where the defendant is alleged to be insane or insane in the defense in a criminal trial, the issue may be tried by the judge of the court in which the case is pending or by a jury or commission appointed by him in his discretion. That in all cases of robbery or burglary with a gun the penalty be more drastic and that the parole act shall conform thereto."

The state highway department has awarded contracts for bridge and pavement construction totaling $762,137.08 as follows: Bridges—Route 127, Section 111-B, Pond county, Amos Culbertson & Co., Oconee, Ill., $8,536.01; Route 115, Section 103-B, Kankakee, Zimmerman Bridge company, Paris, Ill., $12,456.22; Route 115, Sections 102-B, and 102-C, Kankakee, Vincennes Bridge company, Vincennes, Ind., $19,162. Paying—Route 115, Sections 101, 101-D, 102, 102-D, 103, 103-D, Kankakee, McMahon construction company, Rochester, Ind., $289,000; Route 152, Section 104, and Route 154, Section 108, Perry, H. A. Kribbs, Edwardsville, Ill., $293,000; Route 127, Section 111, Bond county, Nelson Construction company, Jerseyville, Ill., $139,082.85.

Announcement is made that the resignation of Leslie H. Vogel, assistant United States attorney for the Southern District of Illinois, has been tendered the department of justice. His resignation is to be effective May 1. District Attorney Walter M. Provine in making this announcement stated that Mr. Vogel will be succeeded by Attorney Marks Alexander of Quincy. Mr. Vogel is returning to the law firm of Brown, Hay & Stephens.

Unification of conservation laws will be the subject of a conference of governors of Middle West states, headed by Gov. Len Small, to be held in Chicago during the week of May 9 to 14. Governors Hamill of Iowa, Greene of Michigan, Christianson of Minnesota and Zimmerman of Wisconsin have indicated their intention of attending.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce of Belleville and other interested cities, together with representatives of Clinton and adjoining counties conferred with Governor Small, Col. C. R. Miller, director of public works and buildings, and Frank T. Sheets, chief highway engineer, in regard to construction of the proposed highway from Belleville to Carlyle, county seat of Clinton county. Scott Field is on the line of the proposed road which extends through New Baden, Germantown, Albers and other cities.

Hinton G. Clabaugh, head of the state department of pardons and paroles, appeared before a joint session of the house and senate and asked for a parole board of twelve members and an appropriation of $3,286,800 to carry on the work of the board over a two-year period. He told the legislators that they had the alternative of appropriating huge sums of money for additions to the state penal institutions or appropriating a sum to the parole board sufficient for the efficient performance of its duties. He defended the parole system as inherently good; and stated that he believed that in it lies the solution of the overcrowded condition of the state penal institutions. In defense of his request for a board of twelve members he advanced the argument that the passing upon the larger number of criminal cases in the penal institutions of Illinois was not a one-man job, and stated that the public would have more confidence in the opinion of twelve men than in that of one. He maintained that such a board should be given the power to fix the time to be served by convicts. In defense of this greatly increased appropriation asked, Mr. Clabaugh said, "The parole board is asked to fix terms of 85 per cent of all prisoners from both Chicago and downstate on an allowance of $175,000 a year; while the City of Chicago alone spends $15,000,000 a year for police work."

A survey of flood conditions in Cass county by engineers of the state, the findings of which will be submitted to the state department, may be the outcome of a conference of representatives of that county with Governor Small. G. H. Husted, farm advisor of Cass county; A. T. Dunn, a farmer residing near Beardstown, and Frank Barton, representing the Illinois Agricultural association, were those who conferred with the governor. They were accompanied to the executive office by S. J. Stanard, director of the state department of agriculture. Approximately 20,000 acres of farm land are under water in that county, and it was urged that such a survey might result in securing information that could be used as a basis of preventive measures.

A premium of $96,100 accrued to the state as a result of the sale of $6,000,000 state highway bonds for $6,096,100, a group headed by the First National bank of New York being the buyers. This represents a rate of $101.60, the highest yet secured. Governor Small in commenting on the results of the sale said: "This is the first time that we have been able to sell our state road bonds at a premium, and I am much pleased at the result of the sale. Our state bonds are one of the safest possible securities. We have always followed the policy of selling our state highway bonds only as the money was needed for construction, and the funds derived from today's sale will, as in the past, be put to work immediately."

An interesting educational film, showing the work done in Kankakee county by the United States and Illinois departments of agriculture co-operating for the eradication of the European corn borer, is being prepared by the state department of agriculture for presentation with the educational exhibits at county and other agricultural fairs during the coming season. This film shows the oil burners in action and the effects of the ordeal on the standing corn stalks.

Hon. Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction, delivered an address on the subject, "Music's Meaning to Humanity," before a meeting of the 1,500 delegates to the North Central Music Supervisors' conference. The North Central conference includes the states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, Minnesota, North Dakota, Nebraska, South Dakota and Ontario, Canada.

Gen. Carlos E. Black has ordered the state staff and the Thirty-third division of the National Guard to assemble at Camp Grant, Rockford, for the annual encampment July 30 to August 13. The Two Hundred and Second coast artillery will assemble at Camp Grayling, Michigan, July 9 to 23. Plans for the annual encampment of the field artillery have not been completed.

Supporters of the eight-hour bill for women feel confident that the bill will pass in a short time. Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove has championed the measure in the house and it arrived at the order of third reading in that body with the only amendment adopted providing that rest periods shall not be included in the eight hours of employment.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Wadsworth Yates, daughter of Congressman Richard Yates and Mrs. Yates of Illinois, to John Wishart Henderson of Glen Tower, Kelvinside, Scotland, took place in Washington. Delegates from Illinois to the D. A. R. congress attended the wedding. President and Mrs. Coolidge were guests.

Senator Cuthbertson's bill appropriating $50,000 for the relief of tornado sufferers in Illinois has passed the senate.

NAILHEAD TRIM IS POPULAR;
NOVEL EFFECT IN SPORTS WEAR

FOR a change, why not trim the new frocks or coat with nailheads instead of with beads? Nailheads are newer and they are smartly adaptable to daytime modes.

Gold nailheads in two sizes dotted here and there add greatly to the attractiveness of a navy-blue crepe or satin frock. They are equally as effective as a border for the hemline of the coat.

It is an artful motif of nailheads which supplies a most fetching decorative note to the gown in the picture. The conventional flower worked on one side of the blouse is a popular idea this season. When done in steel also, many felt hats being designed with them in all-over patterning.

Anything for novelty, that is the mood of the mode. The stylist answers the challenge by introducing metallic effect into knitted construction. An increasing number of sweaters, jumpers, knitted coats and jersey frocks are showing a tendency to yield to the lure of gold and silver. One of the charming ideas is the white jersey frock whose jumper is embroidered in all-over gold and silver design after the manner here pictured.

Sometimes the metallic note is expressed in an actual interknitting of nailheads as is the motif in the picture, it carries a convincing style message. Slippers of neutral tone gray kid were carefully selected for wear with this costume of dark-green crepe, thus carrying out a color scheme of gray, steel and green for the ensemble.

As one considers this handsome costume comes the thought of how charmingly it could be developed in the popular black and white. The flower motif would be very effective worked in large white porcelain beads or in tiny pearls. White kidskin slippers scuffed with an applique of black or with fancy designed inlays, gold and silver threads rather than in embroidery. Sweaters and coats whose stripes interwork their coloring with glittering tinsel are among smartest showings.

Newest in the category of sweaters is the slipon knitted entirely of gold, silver and bronze thread in a manner most enchanting. Often, also, colored jersey shows an interworking of horizontal metal stripes.

Very conspicuous sweaters both as to design and color are worn with plaid solid-colored jersey skirts—especially white. As summer advances more and more will filmy lace-knit or if you please, black slippers piped with white would "complete the picture."

Speaking of nailhead trimming, sometimes an entire blouse is started with gold or silver nailheads. Then, too, nailheads are used to embellish fancy sleeves. In the same class with nailhead effects is that of the tiny "pocketbook clamps" which are pressed about the edges of cuffs, collars, belts and pockets. A dress of dark crepe or satin thus trimmed may handsomely add a gilded or silvered belt.

The use of nailheads as a trimming extends into the realm of millinery

LET US EAT MORE FISH

As fish as a class are a safeguard against mineral deficiencies in the diet it follows that they deserve more attention than they have had from scientists and dietitians from this point of view.

Our country is abundantly supplied with all kinds of fish, and very few fresh or salt water fish are not palatable and good food.

Here are a few things which will be well to remember in regard to this great food.

Slow cooking of fish after it has once started to cook, keeps it tender, sweet as well as retaining the food value of it.

Unwrap fish at once, wash quickly in salted water and wipe dry. Do not allow fish to lay in the water an instant as the cut surface of fish absorbs water very rapidly. This spoils the flavor as well as changing the quality of the meat for cooking.

Sprinkle with salt and pepper (using plenty), wrap in waxed paper (the kind that is wrapped around butter) and put in the ice box, where it will keep for twenty-four hours.

Bits of fish may be added to an omelet, soup or chowder. With various sauces to serve with cooked fish there will never be monotony in serving it.

Where similar varieties of fish are mentioned, one may use the same recipe for any of them. It is not necessary because you have a whitefish to cook, that a recipe calling for white fish should be used.

Baked Weakfish With Raisins. Split the fish and lay on a well buttered dish. Cover with slices of tomato. Pour over the whole two table spoonfuls of butter, melted. Season with salt and pepper and cover with finely minced parsley. Sprinkle raisins in the pan around the fish, add one-fourth cupful of water and one-fourth cupful of vinegar. Pour this around the fish, bake in a moderate oven forty-five minutes.

Salad Greens, Salads.

This is the season of the year when the young growing things appear to the appetite.

The very early salads may include the vegetables which we have always considered as greens.

Look for the blanched dandelions which have been growing under boards or the wood pile; these make the most succulent and wholesome of salad plants. It is well to remember that blanched greens, either lettuce or any other vegetable, are lacking in the green coloring which is so valuable a food adjunct. They tell us that the delicate head lettuce which we so much enjoy is not so rich in vitamins as the leaf lettuce because it has a larger amount of chlorophyll.

French dressing is the simple, easily made and most desirable of all dressings for lettuce, pepper grass or water cress.

Every one should learn to enjoy the dressing made from olive oil. It is so meaty in flavor, so nourishing and appetizing. Be sure that it is fresh and of good quality.

Corn oils and other vegetable oils are taking the place of olive oils, because of their prices. These oils, too, are most nourishing and make tasty salad dressings, but they lack the nutty flavor that is characteristic of the olive oil.

Pepper grass, mustard and sorrel which the farmer finds so objectionable in his fields, as noxious weeds, make fine salads if well dressed with a good salad dressing.

A good salad green is the top of radishes. These early vegetables grow so quickly and the tops are so full of succulence and mineral matter that together with the flavor they make a most tasty dish. Cook as any greens and serve with butter or bacon and fat.

Cress, when mixed with pepper grass or lettuce and served with French dressing, is a salad par excellence.

A calorie is the term used to denote the amount of heat (that is of fuel) to use to raise one pound four degrees of heat, or a force to lift one pound three hundred and eighty-seven feet.

Just as an engineer can estimate the amount of energy available in different kinds of fuel for purposes of producing power, so can we determine the fuel value of foods.

Outside leaves of lettuce rolled and cut into strips make very attractive salads and garnish for various other salads.

The artistic taste may well be used to as good advantage in the preparation and serving of foods as in other things.

YOUNG WOMEN
MAY KEEP WELLBy Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Here is Proof

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results from its use." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. My condition made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask him, 'How is housekeeping?' and he says, 'It is just like being in Heaven!' Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?"

ORCHARD GLEANINGS

LEAVES NEEDED FOR ONE APPLE

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The leaf area of an apple tree is capable of manufacturing sufficient food material for a given number of apples of good size and quality. On heavily loaded branches and trees there is often less than 20 or 30 leaves per apple, and under these conditions the fruit is small and of poor quality. Although some orchardists have practiced removing a few apples to increase the leaf area per fruit, until recently there were no experimental data available to indicate the exact number of leaves required per apple. Thinning has been more or less of a guessing operation.

M. H. Haller and J. R. Magness, horticulturists of the United States Department of Agriculture, in a series of tests made at the Arlington farm, near Washington, found that different varieties vary in the relationship between the leaf area and the size and quality of the fruit. For the Grimes and Ben Davis under the conditions of the tests at least 30 to 40 medium-sized leaves per fruit were necessary to obtain apples of good size and quality, and as many as 50 for the Delicious. When a smaller number of leaves was present, the fruit was not only smaller in size, but was low in dry weight, low in sugar content, and of poor dessert quality. It was found also that apples grown with a large leaf area ripen slightly earlier than the same variety having fewer leaves per fruit.

These determinations were made by ringing or "girdling" the bark of a twig to isolate the fruit and leaves from the rest of the tree. Other investigations had shown that ringing largely prevented the passing of nitrogen and carbohydrates in either direction past the ring, thus making the fruit beyond the ring depend only upon the leaves with which it was isolated. By ringing and thinning the leaves to a definite number at varying distances from the fruit it was found also that apples can draw food material from adjacent leaves and leaves at a distance of 2 to 4 feet with almost equal facility.

Conference Pear Makes a Favorable Impression

Among the many pear varieties being tested by the Michigan experiment station, one, the Conference, has made an unusually favorable impression. This variety is one of the standard pear varieties of England, where it is grown extensively for the fresh fruit market and for canning. After a number of years on probation, it seems to be worthy of more extensive trial among commercial pear growers and amateur gardeners. Its season is about the same as the Bosc. In common storage it can be kept until late in November, in cold storage much later. The fruit is quite large and is shaped somewhat similar to the Bosc, although the neck is not so pronounced. In color alone the Conference falls somewhat short of its other splendid characteristics, the color being a greenish russet. However, when ripe enough to eat the fruit is very attractive. As to quality, the Conference, when properly ripened, is the superior of any of our commercial varieties. The tree of this variety is fortunate in having about as many good points as the fruit. It is medium in size, very productive, and it enjoys more than the average resistance to blight. The Conference is being distributed for trial and should be found in the collection of every admirer of pears.

Horticulture Notes

Orchard trees may be pruned on warm days in late winter.

Study the disease and insect problem before ordering your plants. A good bulletin or book on this subject should be secured.

After the trees come into bearing all old fruit and dead wood should be removed from the orchard each season.

The reason that the average home orchard and berry patch fails to pay is because they don't receive enough attention to make them produce.

In pruning see that dangerous crotches and crowding of limbs are eliminated from young trees to avoid breaking down when the trees come of age. The earlier this shaping is done the less shock to the tree.

As soon as the cold weather is over peach trees should be pruned, say Pennsylvania State college horticulturists. As a rule young peach trees receive too severe pruning, while the old trees are not pruned enough.

When the leaves are out it is too late for the dormant or winter spray. Lose no time in preparing for a dormant spray if your trees and fruit bushes show indications of the presence of any of the various scale insects.

Mixture of Races

The Welsh are a Celtic people. At the time of the coming of the Romans in 55 B. C. the natives of Wales represented a mixture of the primitive Iberians and the later invading Celts, all bearing the general name of Cymry. Afterward the Celtic inhabitants of Britain took refuge in Wales, where they were driven westward by the Anglo-Saxons. In time they merged with the natives.

Serious Oversight

When the citizens of Williston Park, L. I., went to the polls they were asked to vote on two proposals: to appropriate $10,000 for a new fire house and to appropriate $15,000 for a fire department. When the votes were counted, it was found that the first proposal had won, but that the voters had failed to provide for the apparatus.

Telephones in Australia

Approximately 40,000 new telephones were installed in Australia during the fiscal year 1925-26, making the total now in use 103,000, or about 6.73 telephones for every 100 of population, according to a statement by the postmaster general of Queensland.

A LOTTERY WITHOUT A WINNER

By W. R. MOREHOUSE

Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

(There is presented herewith the first of a series of articles exposing the wiles of sharpers who are after your money.)

ALMOST unbelievable amounts are lost to the American people annually from unwise ventures. This loss, estimated at nearly one billion dollars a year, is accounted for when you take into consideration that practically all of the money "invested" in numerous fake schemes and half-baked projects is forfeited by the investors. In presenting this series of articles regarding sharp practices and various kinds of swindles we hope to prevent thousands of people from falling into the traps already set for them by irresponsible and unscrupulous promoters.

W. R. MOREHOUSE

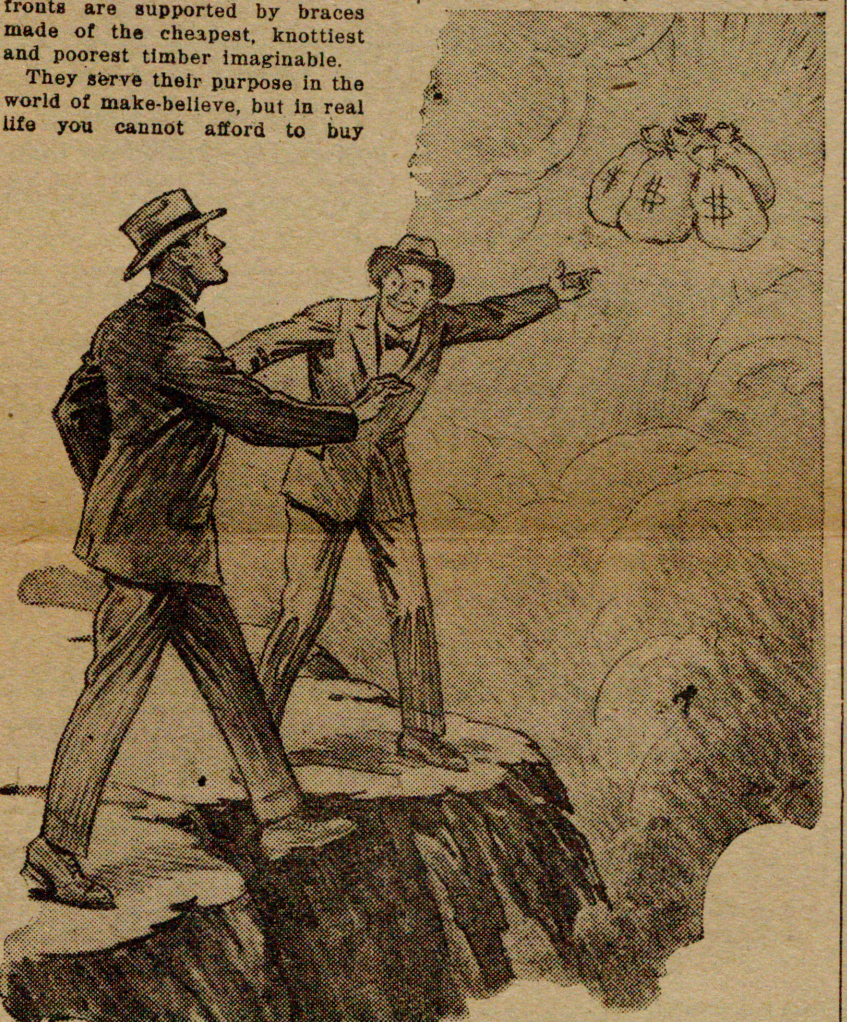

Through the use of only actual cases selected from several thousand, it is hoped to prove conclusively the futility of taking a "gambler's chance" with your savings, for as in a lottery without a winner you are bound to lose. Much of the material here used has been supplied by the Better Business Bureaus throughout the United States which are non-profit organizations serving the investor without charge and acting wholly in the public interest. Read these cases and then file them away for future reference, for sooner or later you may find yourself on the verge of "taking a leap in the dark",—of speculating with your savings as the people here told about were inveigled into doing.

A "good front" has put over more crooked deals than any other one thing. Every irresponsible promoter specializes in putting on a "good front" in his dealings with those whom he fleeces out of their savings. Whether or not he is successful is due to a large degree on how good a front he is able to put on. In motion pictures, the sets, or "props" as they are called, supply the setting for the scenes. They are used to portray things that seem large, things that seem grand and beautiful. Peer behind those sets and what do you see there? You see that the attractive fronts are supported by braces made of the cheapest, knottiest and poorest timber imaginable.

They serve their purpose in the world of make-believe, but in real life you cannot afford to buy

Satanic cunning they fall in line with their intended victim's likes and dislikes, his viewpoint and his hobby, and when they have gained his favor and trust they grow more and more confidential, presently taking a great interest in his welfare and happiness. Before long they are offering advice and pointing out how he can better his own interests by making a new disposition of his available cash or by selling his present good securities and buying others recommended by them.

Your promoter will draw upon your imagination and paint a picture of a scheme by which you can make thou-only good fronts. Your house must have real rooms behind it, your purchases and investments real values. In the field of wild-cat financing if you peer behind the "good front" which the promoter puts on you will find that it is supported only by deception, dishonesty and fraud.

Unscrupulous persons of the "good front" type are expert actors in the role of "big brother" to inexperienced investors with money at their command. As protector and advisor to the widow and the inexperienced, which they claim to be, they are in reality wolves in sheep's clothing.

Gaining the Victim's Confidence In personal appearance they are impressive. As conversationalists they are convincing. As students of the traits of human nature they rate high. In short, they know how to stalk their prey successfully. With

(The next article in this series will tell of a clever scheme practiced in many parts of the country by which the unwary are robbed of their money.)

Sizes of Continents

Europe forms only about one-fourteenth of the land surface of the globe. Asia extends over nearly one-third of the land surface of the globe. Africa has about three times the area of Europe. North America is a little less than twice the size of Europe; and South America is a little more than 1½ times the size of Europe.

Region of Intense Heat

The climate of Death valley, Calif., is due in a measure to its configuration. It consists of a long, narrow parallel valley, considerably below sea level. The Panamint mountains shut out from it the moist winds of the Pacific, so that in August there is less than one-half of 1 per cent of moisture in the atmosphere.

Electric Refrigeration

Overcomes Traditional

Prejudices of Hindus

Modern electricity has begun to tear down the inherited prejudices of the Hindus.

One of their age-old traditions has been an aversion to eating food that has been kept over night and ordinary refrigeration has never had sufficient lure to change their steadfastness.

The United States Department of Commerce reports, however, that since the improvement of the electric refrigerator reports have been received of their sale in India.

Belgium May Relinquish

Control of Telephones

One effect of making King Albert of Belgium the financial dictator of his kingdom for a period of six months, with full power to legislate by decree measures necessary to save the Belgian franc, may be the turning over of the telephone and telegraph system of the country to a private company for operation, as is being done with the railways. This measure was specifically mentioned when King Albert was given his unusual powers.

Producing Liquid Air

Liquid air is a transparent, limpid and intensely cold liquid, slightly blue in color, and of about the same density as water. It is prepared by subjecting air to great pressure and then cooling it by its own expansion to a temperature below the boiling point of its constituents (nitrogen, 194 degrees centigrade; oxygen, 183 degrees centigrade). Its chief use is as a refrigerant.

SEEKS HOME FOR ORPHANS

L. G. Hayes, of the Illinois Childrens Home and Aid Society was in Mokena recently. He has two promising boys whom he wishes to place in farm homes. One is 13 years of age, and large for his age while his brother is 16 years of age and small for his age. When the parents of these boys died they requested that the boys be placed near each other. Perhaps two neighbors can use them. They are American blood and have light hair and eyes. They have no bad habits. Mr. Hayes can be reached thru Mr. W. D. Hollstein of Frankfort, Ill.
